

Qont Terms of Sale

Overview

These Terms of Sale govern all purchases of Qont products and services. By completing a transaction, the buyer agrees to these terms in full.

Pricing and Currency

All prices are displayed in United States Dollars (USD). Depending on the region, prices may or may not include applicable taxes. Qont reserves the right to adjust pricing or currency display at any time without notice.

Payment Methods

Payments are processed securely through Stripe and Qont's internal billing systems. Qont does not store financial details beyond what is required to complete the transaction. Any unauthorized or fraudulent activity may result in account suspension and investigation.

Invoicing and Receipts

Invoices and receipts are automatically issued after successful payment and are available through the customer's account or email. Any corrections or discrepancies should be reported promptly through the billing or support portal.

Refunds and Cancellations

Refunds are granted only where required by law or in the event of a verified system defect or technical failure. Refunds are not provided for change of mind, user error, or dissatisfaction. All refund determinations are made at Qont's discretion after appropriate review.

Delivery of Services

All Qont services are delivered digitally. Access is typically granted immediately after payment confirmation unless otherwise stated. Some enterprise deployments may require setup time or configuration before activation.

Legal Compliance

Customers are responsible for ensuring their purchase and use of Qont products comply with local laws and regulations. Qont reserves the right to cancel or restrict orders in cases of suspected misuse, fraud, or non-compliance.

Policy Updates

Qont may modify these Terms of Sale at any time. Continued use of the services after any update constitutes acceptance of the revised terms.
